THE SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY SYSTEM POLICY ON ENDOWED FACULTY AND CHAIRS

I. Introduction

Southern University System (hereafter "Southern University") comprises five (5) campuses: Southern University and A&M College at Baton Rouge (SUBR); Southern University at New Orleans (SUNO); Southern University at Shreveport, Louisiana (SUSLA); Southern University Law Center (SULC); and the Southern University Agricultural Research and Extension Center (SUAREC).

The appointment of a faculty member to a distinguished position as an endowed chair or endowed professor constitutes the highest honor that can be accorded to a member of the professorate. It is therefore important that there be standardized policies and procedures governing such appointments. The Endowed Professorship Program was created by the Louisiana Endowment Trust Fund for Eminent Scholars during the 1983 Regular Session of the Louisiana Legislature. It was established in the State Treasury by Section I of Acts 1983, No. 668 utilizing monies appropriated annually by the State Legislature. The Southern University System is subject to specified criteria governing eligibility for participation in this program as provided in the Board of Regents' Regulations for the Louisiana Trust Fund for Eminent Scholars. Since SU System campuses have diverse missions and characteristics, this policy is written with adequate flexibility to provide a broad framework that each campus may use to formulate a campus-specific endowed faculty policy that complements this System policy.

II. Purpose of Endowed Faculty Policy

Southern University awards endowed chairs and professorships to faculty who have made outstanding contributions in the areas of research, teaching and public service. The University continuously seeks to attract, reward, and retain distinguished faculty, leaders, scholars, and artists of national and international reputation to occupy endowed Chairs or Professorships as one of the highest forms of recognition of its distinguished faculty. An endowed chair or professorship is intended to improve existing programs by providing support to attract new faculty members and associated resources. It can, however, be used to reward an individual with exceptional accomplishments who is already on the faculty. In addition to rewarding excellence, an endowed position carries with it the expectation of continuing worthy contributions in the area of discipline of the holder.

The holder of an endowed professorship should be considered as receiving a high honor, as well as recognition of consistently demonstrated outstanding performance and ability. Only faculty who have made outstanding contributions in the areas of research, teaching and public service shall be considered for endowed positions. The institutional expectation of a distinguished record of performance in the areas of teaching, research and service shall be met, in addition to any specific selection criteria associated with a particular endowed position. The appointment to an endowed professorship or endowed chair shall be based on merit and may be used to recognize a current member of the faculty or it may be associated with recruitment of a new faculty member.

III. Criteria, Application, Selection, Appointment Procedures

Criteria

Candidates shall demonstrate that their research and other scholarly activities contribute significantly to fulfilling the mission of Southern University both short and long term, for example, by attracting superior students and/or scholars to work in related activities. Candidate's research and other scholarly accomplishments shall be the major factor (at least 50%) in the evaluation and selection process. Other factors shall be included in the evaluation and selection process, such as teaching, university and community service, collegiality, mentoring, etc.

Application Process

Candidates for the awarding of Endowed Professors/Endowed Chairs may be nominated by colleagues from within or without the University. Candidates may also nominate themselves. In addition, the professorship may be recommended and utilized to fill a vacant faculty position. Prospective faculty members must submit the same relevant material as current faculty candidates. Applications/nominations shall include:

- A resume which includes personal data; educational background; employment history; honors; professional activities, especially research; and community service.
- Documentation of all research (articles, copies of books, off-prints where feasible, and programs of conferences at which papers were delivered. In case of professional fields of performing arts, evidence should be given of exhibits, concerts, performances, etc.) Supporting materials provided must document the outstanding contributions of the candidates in the areas of research, teaching and public service.
- Five letters of recommendation, two of which must be from outside the University. Additional reference letters/reports may be secured from the candidates' present/former colleagues, supervisors or employers.

Applicants for endowed awards shall demonstrate an interest in and the ability to work within both the academic setting and outside community. They should be able to foster a spirit of collegiality, and work to accrue benefits for both the community and University.

Selection Process A

On the SUBR, SUNO and SUSLA campuses the names of candidates and supporting materials shall be sent to the Selection Committee whose membership shall consist of tenured faculty members in the department. At least 75% of the Committee must participate in the decision.

The Committee shall forward the names (with supporting documents, including reasons for actions taken) of the highest ranked faculty candidates and alternates to the Deans of the Colleges with the open endowed positions. In cases where the Committee does not recommend a name for the endowed position, a letter should be sent from the Chair of the Committee to the Dean of the College with a reason for the action taken. If approved, the Dean of the College forwards the recommendation (highest ranked faculty candidates and alternate) to the Vice Chancellor and/or Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost. If approved the Vice Chancellor and/or Provost's recommendation must subsequently be submitted to and approved by the Chancellor, the President of the Southern University System and the Southern University System Board of Supervisors. The normal appeals guidelines in the retention, tenure and promotions in the faculty handbook shall apply to appeals in respect of endowed chairs/professorships.

Selection Process B

On the SULC campus the names of candidates and supporting materials shall be sent to the Selection Committee consisting of tenured faculty of SULC. All members are required to review the dossiers of the candidates for endowed positions. At least 75% of the Committee must be present for decision making.

The Committee shall forward all names, recommendations (with supporting documents, including reasons for action taken) to the Chancellor. Supporting documents for candidates recommended for appointment must demonstrate their outstanding contributions in the areas of research, teaching and public service. Any member of the committee may file a report indicating why a nominee/candidate should not be appointed. Such report shall be forwarded to the Chancellor, along with the Committee's report with notification to the candidates. The normal appeals guidelines in the retention, tenure and promotions in the faculty handbook shall apply to appeals in respect of the endowed chairs/professorships. The Chancellor shall in turn review all reports and appeals and transmit his recommendation to the President of the Southern University System with notification to the candidates. Upon review of the Chancellor's recommendation, the President shall in turn make his recommendation to the Southern University System Board of Supervisors.

Appointment Process

■ Terms of Appointment - Endowed Chairs and Professorships

Appointment to an endowed chair is for a period up to three consecutive years. The term of the chair is made by the chief academic officer of a respective campus upon the recommendation of the college dean or committee chair. The appointment is renewable based on the results of the annual performance review of the chair holder. This appointment period is in accordance with the agreements which established these chairs.

Appointment to an endowed professor is for a period up to three consecutive years. The term of the professor is made by the chief academic officer of a respective campus upon the recommendation of the college dean or selection committee chair. The appointment is renewable based on the results of the annual performance review of the endowed professorship. This appointment period is in accordance with the agreements which established these chairs.

Appointees may be selected for an additional three-year period by a majority vote of tenured faculty of the Department in which the endowed faculty serves.

All appointments are revocable without respect to term of appointment if the chief academic officer deems an appointee to have failed to fulfill the expectation of the appointment when assessed annually.

RE: Honorary Degree for Governor John Bel Edwards

DATE: March 7, 2016

On Monday, March 7, 2016, the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences voted to recommend that Governor John Bel Edwards, the Spring 2016 Commencement Speaker, be awarded an Honorary Doctorate in Humanities for his exemplary public service.

In light of Governor Edwards' contributions to his country, the state of Louisiana, and Southern University at New Orleans, generally, it is my distinct pleasure to forward the recommendation for approval. Governor Edwards is worthy of the award and his meritorious efforts fit well within the College of Arts and Sciences.

Thank you very much.

ABOUT JOHN BEL EDWARDS

Prior to being elected governor, John Bel Edwards served as the State Representative for District 72 in Louisiana's North Shore region. He is a 1988 Dean's List graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point. While at West Point, he was chosen by his classmates as the Vice Chairman of the Honor Committee In Charge of Investigations. After eight years of active duty with the US Army as an Airborne Ranger, culminating with command of a rifle company in the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, he went on to graduate Order of the Coif from Louisiana State University's Paul M. Hebert Law Center.

From the heart of Louisiana, John Bel, as his friends and family know him, excelled in high school athletics (football and baseball) and graduated as valedictorian of his Amite High School class. As one of eight children from a family long dedicated to public service, John Bel carries on the family tradition. With a father who was the elected Sheriff of Tangipahoa Parish – the Edwards have four generations of Tangipahoa Parish Sheriffs in their family lineage with John Bel's brother Daniel currently serving as Sheriff – John Bel learned the importance of public service at an early age.

His Catholic upbringing and strong family ties have shaped both his commitments to his own community as well as his family. John Bel's mother taught him both the compassion he demonstrates as a legislator and his belief in the power of prayer. Meanwhile, his family credits his father with ensuring that John Bel carefully considers all sides of an issue before making difficult decisions on behalf of his constituents. This compassion and good judgment, coupled with his ability to understand the details of legislation, has made him a force to be reckoned with among his colleagues in the Louisiana Legislature.

John Bel is married to his high-school sweetheart, the former Donna Hutto and they live in Roseland, Louisiana, with their three children, Samantha, Sarah Ellen, and John Miller. Donna is a public school teacher in Hammond, Louisiana, and John Bel practices law with his nephew in Amite. The Edwards family attends St. Helena Catholic Church in Amite.

RE: Request to Suspend SUAREC Chancellor Search

Dear Chairman Tarver and Members of the Board:

I am requesting that the Southern University Board of Supervisors authorize the suspension of the Southern University Agricultural Research and Extension Center (SUAREC) Chancellor Search for the reasons outlined in this communication. In a very recent meeting with the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), we were advised of potential opportunities that may constitute substantive rewards to the SUAREC if a realignment of the SUAREC provided for agriculture degree granting programs on campus.

As you are aware, Louisiana higher education has been undergoing significant challenges in funding over the past decade. And, although, the SUAREC receives considerable funding via the USDA, it is not immune to the current state budget crisis. We, along with the USDA, believe that the alignment of agricultural research, extension, and teaching is critical to future growth and success of the University's overall agricultural offerings. Additionally, we believe that there may be the potential for financial savings and efficiencies based on the structure of a proposed realignment of the SUAREC with the agricultural programs at SUBR. Therefore, such reorganization would have the potential to respond to the USDA's recommendation positively and assist the System as a whole as we seek ways to reduce expenses.

Given this recommendation and the current fiscal challenges we are facing, I feel it would be prudent at this time to suspend the chancellor search until we can determine the future organizational structure of agricultural programs within the Southern University System.

It is important to note, however, that we have no intention of eliminating the programmatic components of the SUAREC nor the agricultural programs on the SUBR campus. The SU System administrative and academic teams along with the SUAREC are studying comparable models and developing scenarios that would provide more information on a realigned structure and are poised to present a plan for the upcoming Board of Supervisors Retreat in April.

SUBR's Chancellor Report to the Southern University Board of Supervisors

Significant Achievements / Accomplishments

SU 2016 Founders' Day

SU Celebrating 136 years

Southern University:

"Continuing the Journey... Surpassing Boundaries..."

Southern University and A&M College recently celebrated its 136th Founders' Day. In order to commemorate this special occasion, events were held on the Baton Rouge campus on March 9, 2015.

The theme for Founders' Day, "Southern University: Continuing the Journey...Surpassing Boundaries," paid tribute to former SUBR engineering students who were among the first African Americans to be recruited in the early 1960's through the National Aeronautics Space Administration's (NASA) newly created Cooperative Education Program. The book, We Could Not Fail: The First African Americans in the Space Program, highlighted some of the SUBR pioneers.

The Founders' Day celebration began with the SU Laboratory School's traditional pilgrimage. The guest speaker for the program was SU Laboratory School graduate, Dr. Leigh Jefferson Griffin. Following the pilgrimage, the Community Prayer Brunch/Founders' Day Convocation was held in the F. G. Clark Activity Center. Dr. Mae Jemison, former NASA astronaut and the first African-American woman in space, served as the keynote speaker. Dr. Jemison delivered a powerful message and stressed the importance of education and uplifted and encouraged all in attendance.

At the conclusion of convocation, the NASA Student Exposition provided an opportunity for SUBR students and East Baton Rouge high school students to engage with NASA representatives and exciting scientific displays. The authors of the book, We Could Not Fail, Richard Paul and Steven Moss, also signed copies of their book. Another highlight of Founders' Day included the University's Birthday Party held at Jaguar Square. The culminating event was the Employee Service Awards Recognition Dinner. During this dinner, employees of SUBR who have given 20, 30, and 40 plus years of service were recognized for their commitment and unyielding love for Southern University. The employees were given the royal treatment as they were honored and praised for their continued dedication.

A special thank you to the Founders' Day Committee and Chairperson Ms. Patricia Flood for doing an outstanding job of planning an excellent Founders' Day!

SU Professor Co-Authors Historic LIGO Gravity Wave Detection Paper

Dr. Stephen C. McGuire, SUBR professor of physics, is co-author on the publication entitled "Observation of Gravitational Waves from a Binary Black Hole Merger." The article has been published in the journal, Physical Review Letters.

The official announcement of the gravity wave detection was made on February 11, 2016, by way of an international press conference hosted by the National Science Foundation at the National Press Club in Washington, DC that was immediately followed by a local press conference hosted by the LIGO (Laser Interferometer Gravitational-wave Observatory) Livingston Observatory. The historic detection was rapidly reported in all major news media outlets including the New York Times, Washington Post, Wall Street Journal, the three major television networks, and their counterparts in nearly every country across the globe.

According to Dr. McGuire, news of the detection was significant for several reasons. First, the existence of gravitational waves is the last of Einstein's major predictions that had not been scientifically verified. Second, LIGO is the most sensitive detection instrument ever created in the history of humankind. In order to confirm the existence of gravity waves, the observatory had to detect a displacement of one-thousandth the size of a proton. Third, the confirmation that LIGO can detect gravitational-wave producing events, such as the collision of two giant black holes over a billion years ago, means that scientists will be able to "see" other such events. In demonstrating the detection of this new type of radiation, LIGO has opened up an entirely new window on the universe.

"Leading the establishment of the collaboration between Southern University and LIGO is a major highlight of my professional career. Being a member of the LIGO gravity-wave discovery team is the culmination of many years of hard work and dedication. I am proud to represent Southern University in this world-class physics experiment especially at such a time in the evolution of gravitational-wave astronomy," Dr. McGuire stated.

Dr. McGuire has published extensively in nuclear physics and its applications. He lectured in the prestigious National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) Colloquium Series in the spring of 2008, on the subject of "LIGO: At the forefront of optical materials research." At that point in its history the NIST Colloquium had included 21 Nobel laureates.

In the fall of 2008 Dr. McGuire was elected a Fellow of the American Physical Society (APS), "the highest honor bestowed by APS upon a member by one's peers in recognition of outstanding contributions to physics." Recently he was appointed one of ten inaugural LIGO Scientific (LSC) Collaboration Fellows.

Dr. McGuire serves as LIGO Scientific Collaboration principal investigator for Southern University and is the director of the On-campus Advanced Optical Materials Laboratory

McGuire, professor, Department of Physics, SUBR and principal investigator - LIGO Scientific Collaboration (LSC); and SUBR students Dakota Williams, Rachel Percy, and Darius Knox.

For the first time, scientists have observed ripples in the fabric of space time called gravitational waves, arriving at the earth from a cataclysmic event in the distant universe. This confirms a major prediction of Albert Einstein's 1915 general theory of relativity and opens an unprecedented new window onto the cosmos.

Gravitational waves carry information about their dramatic origins and about the nature of gravity that cannot otherwise be obtained. Physicists have concluded that the detected gravitational waves were produced during the final fraction of a second of the merger of two black holes to produce a single, more massive spinning black hole. This collision of two black holes had been predicted but never observed.

The gravitational waves were detected on September 14, 2015 at 5:51 a.m. Eastern Daylight Time by both of the LIGO detectors, located in Livingston, Louisiana, and Hanford, Washington. The LIGO Observatories are funded by the National Science Foundation (NSF), and were conceived, built, and are operated by Caltech and MIT. The discovery, accepted for publication in the journal Physical Review Letters, was made by the LIGO Scientific Collaboration and the Virgo Collaboration using data from the two LIGO detectors.

At the helm in the control room at the LIGO Livingston Observatory was Southern University alumnus William Parker, who first noted the anomaly and alerted staff of a possible detection after getting calls from other researchers involved in the scientific observation for gravitational waves.

"At first I was just calm, but as the calls piled up and we began the process of verification, I was excited and very contemplative. This has been an awesome journey," said Mr. Parker.

William Parker, a New Orleans native, began studying at Southern University New Orleans as a scholar of the Louis Stokes Louisiana Alliance for Minority Participation (LS-LAMP). He transferred to the Baton Rouge campus after Hurricane Katrina where he continued to be an LS-LAMP Scholar. LS-LAMP is funded by the NSF and has documented success with increasing the number and quality of minority students earning baccalaureate degrees in science, technology, engineering and mathematics disciplines. Mr. Parker earned an undergraduate and master's degree in mathematics/physics. He started working at LIGO as a student docent at the Science Education Center (SEC) while still enrolled at SU, and was hired last year as a detector operator.

Southern University has been an active member in LIGO in the area of optical materials research since 1999. The University's work focuses on minimizing noise in LIGO test mass mirrors in order to help maximize the sensitivity of the LIGO interferometers. These investigations have involved detailed experimental and computational studies of atomic composition and chemical structure of the mirror coatings by SU faculty members and students from the physics, chemistry, mathematics and computer science departments.

The SU work has stimulated collaborations with a broad spectrum of LIGO scientists, in addition to the National Institute of Standards and Technology, Caltech, the Stanford Synchrotron Radiation Laboratory (SSRL), and the Louisiana State University (LSU) Center for Advanced Microstructures and Devices (CAMD).

"We all can take pride in having Southern University and A&M College be a part of this historic event in the life of the state, nation, and the world. The event encapsulates 15 years of creative work, dedication, and contributions to science and science education outreach by our faculty and students in achieving this recognition," Dr. McGuire added.

Additionally, Southern University is a founding partner in the LIGO Science Education Center that engages faculty and students from across the campus as well as the community in science education through in-service and pre-service programs that primarily impact K-16 teacher preparation. SU College of Education, Arts and Humanities professor Luria Young is principal investigator for SU LIGO SEC Partnership. Many SU students have worked as SEC docents including Mr. Parker.

"Southern University is honored to be a part of this groundbreaking discovery and scientific research. Congratulations to the collaborative team for their persistent interest in proving the prediction of a renown theoretical physicist," said SU System President Ray L. Belton.

The discovery was made possible by the enhanced capabilities of Advanced LIGO, a major upgrade that increases the sensitivity of the instruments compared to the first generation LIGO detectors, enabling a large increase in the volume of the universe probed-and the discovery of gravitational waves during its first observation run. The US National Science Foundation leads in financial support for Advanced LIGO. Funding organizations in Germany (Max Planck Society), the U.K. (Science and Technology Facilities Council, STFC) and Australia (Australian Research Council) also have made significant commitments to the project. Several of the key technologies that made Advanced LIGO so much more sensitive have been developed and tested by the German UK GEO collaboration. Significant computer resources have been contributed by the AEI Hannover Atlas Cluster, the LIGO Laboratory, Syracuse University, and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. Several universities designed, built, and tested key components for Advanced LIGO: The Australian National University, the University of Adelaide, the University of Florida, Stanford University, Columbia University of New York, and Louisiana State University.

SUBR Spring Enrollment Increase

SUBR continues its spring enrollment growth with a nearly five percent increase in student enrollment for the Spring 2016 semester compared to last year at this time.

According to the Division for Student Affairs and Enrollment Management, 5884 students are currently enrolled at the Baton Rouge campus, 225 more than in the Spring 2015 semester.

These numbers continue an upward trend in enrollment. Fall 2015 enrollment for the SUBR campus increased by more than 200 students over the previous year's fall enrollment, and the freshman class size increased by 31 percent. Last year, the Baton Rouge campus began a recruiting campaign, "Pathway to Prominence," that directly correlated to an influx of applications for admission. Campaign tour stops in Dallas, Houston, Atlanta, and Texas, allowed students to hear from University administrators and student government leaders, as well as hear and see the SU Jaguar Marching Band and cheerleaders perform. The SUBR Office of Admissions hired three additional recruiters who are housed in Illinois, Georgia, and Texas.

"I'm proud of the tremendous work Southern University's Enrollment Management Team has done and the stunning effort and commitment they have displayed in ensuring all Jaguars were motivated and equipped to continue their education in Spring 2016. This significant enrollment increase represents a continual increase in the number of students choosing to begin and/or continue their education at Southern University, and makes a profound statement regarding the efficacy and potential of enrollment strategies presently being implement by our dedicated team members," said Dr. Brandon K. Dumas, Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs and Enrollment Management.

The Baton Rouge campus joins other system campuses that realized spring enrollment jumps as well. Southern University Shreveport enrolled a record headcount of 3,242 students for the Spring 2016 semester. This follows a previous record Fall 2015 semester enrollment of 3,174 students. According to final enrollment figures, 2,500 students registered for the 2016 spring semester at Southern University New Orleans compared to 2,455 enrolled in Spring 2015.

"While these numbers are certainly encouraging, we are committed to increasing the momentum of growth of students deciding to continue their education and pursuing opportunities at Southern University. Our campuses, with help from our alumni, have put forth a generous effort to attract measurably more students in this challenging environment," said SU System President-Chancellor Ray L. Belton.

The SUBR team included College of Business graduate students Tremayne Criner, Sophie Balunywa, Chie Fred Awumah, and Jose Francisco. Howard University placed first. Other participating institutions included Tennessee State University, Clark Atlanta University, Spellman College, and Texas Southern University.

"Working on the case with a diverse team gave me a glimpse into the trials and tribulations of actual teamwork. Presenting the case to an audience of professionals and receiving positive feedback was refreshing, this experience showed me that we all have the capabilities to compete anywhere, regardless of our backgrounds; as long as you set your mind to it," said Ms. Balunywa.

According to Tremayne Criner, "Participating in the ISM Diversity's Case Competition event was a great opportunity to showcase our talent we have in the Southern University's MBA program against other top-notch HBCU institutions. The ISM Diversity sponsors, supporters, and attendees were all pleased with our team's enthusiasm, positive energy, and our will to strive for excellence. I am truly humbled by the experience and proud to have represented 'The Great' Southern University in this event."

At the annual competition, teams from invited colleges had the opportunity to develop analytical and reasoning skills in a professional setting, much like they will face in the business world. Jose Francisco stated, "This case competition was an eye-opening experience to demonstrate the talent of the student body of our University and the quality of education that we are obtaining. I think we set the path for the next generation of students. We should promote the participation on case competitions and encourage the students to participate, which is a learning experience with a lot of benefits. Networking with chief officers in top companies in our desired career path, there is no classroom for that. I encourage teachers to coach and motivate our students to participate and take advantage of this life changing opportunities."

ISM is the largest global organization dedicated to advancing the practice of procurement and supply management. ISM is the leader in supply chain, driving value to its members with its two widely renowned certifications, the Report On Business®, countless educational resources, and extensive networking events around the globe.

"The Institute for Supply Management Diversity Summit 2016 created numerous opportunities for networking with top supply chain professionals and recruiters from leading industries such as Johnson & Johnson, Wells Fargo, Honda, Du Pont, UPS, Pfizer, American Water, Merck, ADT Security Services and more. Talks laid emphasis on the importance of getting a mentor (professional) to help build a career. The ISM provide these activities and professionals are willing to take up mentoring roles. Other HBCUs are taking advantage of these opportunities thus I want to call on my fellow College of Business/Southern University students to engage in such activities to boost their career chances," Chie Fred Awumah said.

Jose Noguera, MBA professor, supply chain management and chair of the Management and Marketing Department in the College of Business, SUBR, organized and coached the team for the competition.

The Southern University Ag Center and the Division of Agricultural, Family and Consumer Sciences successfully completed the 22nd Annual Black History Quiz Bowl on Thursday, February 25, 2016.

This year, the team from Southern University in New Orleans (SUNO) came in first place. The Minorities in Agriculture, Natural Resources and Related Sciences (MANRRS) Aggies team took second place, and the Urban Forestry team finished in 3rd place. The top teams took home plaques while each contestant had a choice of a book from the Black History collection.

Each team consisted of four players, one of whom served as captain. Questions included a wide variety of topics from academia to sports, books, current and past events and much more.

The Quiz Bowl, under the leadership of Owusu Bandele, Professor Emeritus in Horticulture, is open to all SU campuses and even area high schools.

Dr. Bandele appreciates the development offered students in preparing, organizing teams and being inspired by knowledge of our heritage.

SU System Celebrates its Fourth Anniversary as a 100% Tobacco-Free System

The Southern University Ag Center's Communities of Color Network (CoC) led the charge in Louisiana as the Southern University System became the first University System to establish a 100% Tobacco-Free Policy. CoC, under the leadership of its director, Linda Early Brown, initiated this policy effort.

The CoC is a statewide entity that educates communities of color about the dangers of tobacco use, secondhand smoke exposure and the availability of smoking cessation resources. The network's regional coordinators, Hendrix Broussard; Urina Holt; LaTonya Owens and Frankie Poland, continue to lead the way in this endeavor statewide through educational workshops. The program is funded via a grant with the Louisiana Campaign for Tobacco-Free Living.

In October 2012, CoC recommended the 100% Tobacco-Free Policy to the Southern University System (SUS) Board of Supervisors and it was approved with an effective date of January, 2013. This was approximately a year prior to the state mandate that all Louisiana colleges and universities adopt a similar tobacco policy effective August 1, 2014.

According to the policy, the use of tobacco products on any Southern University campus is prohibited for students, staff, faculty or visitors in campus buildings, facilities, or property owned or leased by the Southern University System and outside areas of the campus where non-smokers cannot avoid exposure to smoke; on campus grounds, facilities, or vehicles that are the property of the campus; and at lectures, conferences, meeting, and social and cultural events held on school property or school grounds. Further, the sale or free distribution of tobacco products, including merchandise on campus or at school events is prohibited.

The Communities of Color Network extends congratulations to all SU Ag Center employees and thanks them for their continued efforts in assisting with the implementation of the 100% Tobacco-Free System Policy and encourages them to continue their efforts in making the System a place to live, learn, work, and play where healthier air for all is the norm.

SU Represented at Southern Sustainable Ag Working Group Conference

The 25th annual Southern Sustainable Ag Working Group Conference was held in Kentucky, from January 27 -30, and SU was highly featured. One group that was highlighted was the Southeastern African American Farmers Organic Network (SAAFON). The SU Ag Center played a very significant role in the creation of this organization and assisted over 40 farmers in getting organically certified, most of whom are African Americans.

Southern University Ag Center staff members Mila Berhane, senior research associate, Stephanie Elwood, extension associate, and Owusu Bandede, professor emeritus presented at the conference, themed "Practical Tools and Solutions for Sustaining Family Farms."

Berhane and Elwood made a joint presentation on "Getting Great Starts," which discussed the best systems for growing transplants in heated tunnels or greenhouses.

Berhane also made a presentation on “Integrated Ecological Weed Management: Examples of Organic Farms in the South,” with experts from North Carolina and Georgia.

Dr. Bandele presented during the Friday Edition of ‘Voices from the Field: The Everyday Work.’ This special event featured individuals whose everyday work contributes to remarkable progress in the areas of sustainable, organic and/or local food movement.

The Southern SWAG Conference provides practical tools and solutions for sustainable and organic farmers, as well as, creates more vibrant community food systems. The event which drew more than 1,450 registered attendees is said to be the biggest conference on record.

Following the conference, Dr. Owusu Bendele was mentioned in The Tennessean Newspaper article, “Shake the Hand That Fed You: George Washington Carver and his Peanut Kisses.” To read the full article, visit The Tennessean at <http://tnne.ws/1TgQW77> . ### COMMUNITIES OF COLOR PARTICIPATES IN BREATHE FREE BR CAMPAIGN

The SU Ag Center’s Communities of Color Network (CoC) continues its partnership commitment to the BREATHE FREE BR Campaign. Linda Early Brown, CoC Director and Frankie Poland, Regional Coordinator attended a press conference to announce the launch of the 2nd annual campaign held January 20-27. The campaign was designed to raise public awareness about the importance of providing tobacco-free environments for the community and supported by health agencies and churches in Baton Rouge.

The CoC participated by ensuring visibility of the signage around strategic areas on SU campus. The “Breathe Free” message was shared on social media, as well as engaging and educating the public via variety of workshops. Local bars were contacted to assist with sharing the message as they held “smoke-free” nights events.

Southwest Center for Rural Initiatives Educator Creates Community Wellness Program

The Southwest Center for Rural Initiatives (1209 Diesl St., Opelousas, LA 70570) is set to begin an exercise accountability program

Commit to Being Fit and Healthy” on March 14, 2016. Research has shown that individuals who are participating in group fitness tend to stay committed and active longer than individuals who attempt to start alone. Commit to Being Fit and Healthy is a holistic wellness program and will include both exercising and eating healthy. In addition to this once-weekly program, “Anytime Fitness” of Opelousas has volunteered to become a wellness partner and offer participants and their families discounted membership, registration fees, and free guest passes.

“Upon meeting with Seth (Anytime Fitness, owner), he was so excited to be given the opportunity to give back to the community; we agreed that overall wellness is a vital part to living a healthy lifestyle”, said Krystle Washington. “When I first began to develop this program, my major goal was to locate a gym that would partner with the SCRI and help accomplish the Southwest Center’s goal of decreasing obesity in adults and youth by increasing physical activity and improving lifestyle choices; I hope the entire community comes out and takes control of their health,” said Washington.

'Job Shadow Day' is a full-day event to help middle school students gain exposure to the various careers that this world has to offer. On Tuesday, February 2, Nicolette Gordon, Southern University Ag Center Assistant Area Agent, introduced Robert Jackson, a sixth grader at Westside Jr. High School, to the wonderful world of careers in Cooperative Extension. Gordon provided a first-hand look at the personal skillset, knowledge and education Jackson would need in order to pursue a career in this field. Although this event is designed to partner youth with careers of interest, it is

DeLane Ross Speaks to the Volunteers for Family and Community Meeting

Assistant county agent of St. Martin and Iberia Parishes, DeLane Ross was invited as guest speaker by the Volunteers for Family and Community (VFC) meeting in Breaux Bridge, LA on February 16, 2016. The VFC program comprises of women from the local community who are dedicated to educating families on the subjects of community development, home economics & gardening. The purpose of the February 16 meeting was to teach about the new ornamental & shrub varieties and controlling common Louisiana plant diseases. Additionally, the group desired to learn planting tips & techniques for a productive spring garden.

Ross focused on popular ornamentals & shrubs cultivars that have shown substantial resistance to common diseases in Louisiana. In addition, he elaborated on utilizing common plants for applications other than their traditional uses.

He referenced the possibility of using certain Hibiscus varieties such as Hibiscus Sabdariffa, which Southern University Ag Center researchers have identified as having both botanical and nutritional benefits. Ross also outlined methods to determine the types of plants that are best suited for Louisiana's Southwestern region's growing conditions and climate.

Nearly 60 participants attended this event and were interested to learn more about the SU Ag Center's mission and ways they could be involved with future programs. "There is a common link between the challenges we face and the solutions we seek. What we attempt to offer is the understanding of both in order to be as productive as possible," said Ross.

FACULTY AND STAFF ACCOMPLISHMENTS AND ACTIVITIES

Dr. Eubanks accepts nomination to serve on the BREADA Board

Vice Chancellor for Extension at the SU Ag Center accepted a nomination to serve as a member on the Big River Economic and Agricultural Development Alliance (BREADA), a non-profit organization with headquarters in Baton Rouge. BREADA is the parent organization of the Red Stick Farmers Market and the Main Street Market.

MISSION: To build a healthy and strong local food system; to increase sustainability of independent local farmers, fishers and food producers; and to foster stewardship of land and community through public markets.

Background: In 1996, a small group of farmers was recruited for Baton Rouge's first farmers market by Chris Company as part of his Master's thesis under the direction of LSU Landscape Architecture Professor Suzanne Turner. Red Stick Farmers Market was born and the first market was held in November 1996 in the parking lot of the Government building located on St. Louis Street in downtown Baton Rouge. BREADA was officially recognized as a 501c-3 non-profit organization in the same year and began its work to increase economic opportunities for small farmers.

In 2002, BREADA was approached to relocate the farmers market to 5th and Main Streets and create a dynamic public marketplace for the downtown community. In conjunction with the Baton Rouge Area Foundation and the State of Louisiana, Main

SUNO Brings the H.E.A.T in Baton Rouge

Despite windy and chilly weather, about 2,000 students from across the state gathered on the steps of the State Capitol Feb. 24 to voice their concerns about pending budget cuts to higher education.

Two bus loads of SUNO students, faculty, staff and alumni took the trip to Baton Rouge to participate in the Higher Education Day “Bring H.E.A.T (Higher Education All Together)” Rally. Louisiana colleges face $131 million in cuts if the Legislature doesn’t find a budget fix this fiscal year.

SUNO Center celebrates Black History Month

During February, the University celebrated Black History Month with a wide array of activities -- lectures, dance, films, poetry, exhibits, musical performances, dramatic presentations and other events.

Organized by the Center for African and African American Studies (CAAAS) in collaboration with several units on campus and the community, the celebration provided an opportunity to reflect on a crucial part of America's history, culture and heritage. The National Theme was Hallowed Grounds: Sites of African American Memories.

The month kicked off with an opening ceremony Feb. 2 in the Conference Center. The celebration featured a presentation from Dr. Schroeder Cherry, a puppeteer and mixed media artist. The celebration culminated with a Black State of Affairs Conference. The featured speakers were Johnny Massey, a historian, educator and community attorney; Kathe Hambrick-Jackson, director of the River Road African American Museum in Donaldsonville, LA; Carl Galmon, civil rights activist and member of the National Voting Rights Museum in Selma, AL; and Dr. Takuna El Shabazz, a grass-roots orator.

Title III Programs and Lyceum funded the programs.

Dr. Rodney Ellis

SU Board of Supervisors Chairman Leon R. Tarver II offered congratulations as well to the Chancellor-elect who will lead the SU System's Shreveport campus.

Ellis, a higher-education consultant, is the former Chancellor of Central Louisiana Technical Community College (CLTCC). Ellis previously served as Executive Vice President at Atlanta Technical College in Atlanta, Georgia. Ellis worked at Atlanta Technical College for nearly 13 years where he also served as Vice President of IT, Planning and Development and Director of Institutional Development. Prior to his service at Atlanta Technical College, Ellis served as institutional effectiveness specialist at the Technical College System of Georgia and senior research specialist at the Roosevelt Warm Springs Institute for Rehabilitation.

Ellis earned his doctorate in higher education administration, with a specialization in community and technical college leadership, from the University of Georgia; a Master of Science in Judicial Administration from Auburn University at Montgomery; and a bachelor of arts in political science from the University of Alabama.

He has served on the Board of Directors for the Central Louisiana Chamber of Commerce, Re-Entry Solutions, and the Rapides Parish Workforce Investment Board. He has also been an active member of the Rotary Club of Alexandria, getting recognized as a Paul Harris Fellow. He previously served as a member of the Kiwanis Club of Atlanta, the Atlanta Tech Civitan Club, the Atlanta Airport Chamber of Commerce, and the Atlanta Business League. He was also a member of the Atlanta Media and Film Community Jobs Task Force, the Atlanta Emerald Cities Green Jobs Task Force, and the Atlanta Beltline Employment Working Group.

"I am very excited and humbled for this honor. I look forward to leading the Southern University Shreveport campus and thank Board Chairman Leon Tarver, all Board members, and President-Chancellor Ray Belton for this wonderful opportunity," said Ellis.

"This Board has taken a great deal of effort in its deliberations in selecting a Chancellor for the SUSLA campus. The search committee did an excellent job in recommending three very capable candidates to interview. We look forward to Dr. Ellis bringing his expertise and energy in leading our Shreveport campus," said Tarver.

JESSE N. STONE HONORED AT BLACK HISTORY MONTH RECEPTION

Legendary attorney, professor and civil rights activist Jesse N. Stone was honored in a reception and mixer at the Southern University at Shreveport Museum of Art (SUMAS) on February 18. The event, entitled, "The Bridge Builder", was a partnership between Southern University at Shreveport and the Southern University Law Center. Drs. Rachel Emanuel and Melva K. Williams served as co-chairs.

The reception featured tributes and a portrait unveiling of Stone. Stone was in the first graduating class of the historically black Southern University Law Center, and for a time, was the only black attorney in Shreveport. During the civil rights movement, Stone was affiliated with the NAACP and worked with the Congress of Racial Equality, and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. He was active in the desegregation of Caddo Parish public schools during the 1960s. In 1971, Stone became dean of his alma mater, the Southern University Law Center. From 1972 to 1974, he was an appointed associate justice of the Louisiana Supreme Court. On July 1, 1974, he returned to the Southern University System to serve as its fourth president. After leaving the presidency, Stone became a law professor at the center but retired in 1986.

Stone's daughter, Judge Shonda Stone attended the event on behalf of the Stone family. "My father loved God, his family and the law, in that order," remarked Stone. "This celebration of his life truly means so much to me, my mother and our entire family."

Stone's portrait will hang in the Judicial Hall of fame on the Southern University Law Center campus.

WILLIAMS CHOSEN FOR PRESTIGIOUS PRESIDENTIAL LEADERSHIP PROGRAM

The Presidential Leadership Scholars program, a unique leadership development initiative that draws upon the resources of the presidential centers of Lyndon B. Johnson, George H.W. Bush, William J. Clinton, and George W. Bush, has announced the 61 scholars invited to participate in the program's second class. Included in the 2016 class of scholars is Dr. Melva Williams, Executive Associate to the Chancellor at SUSLA.

Williams was chosen because of her desire and capacity to take her leadership strengths to a higher level in order to help the community and our country. Over the course of several months, scholars will travel to each participating presidential center to learn from former presidents, key administration officials, and leading academics. They will study and put into practice varying approaches to leadership, develop a network of peers, and exchange ideas with mentors and others who can help them make an impact in their communities.

The program is non-degree bearing, entails approximately 100 hours of informative sessions and case studies, and covers expansive approaches to leadership theory, drawing upon examples from recent presidents.

Scholars will visit the George H.W. Bush Presidential Library in March, the William J. Clinton Presidential Center in April, the George W. Bush Presidential Center in May, and the Lyndon B. Johnson Presidential Library in June. The class will graduate at the William J. Clinton Presidential Center in Little Rock, Arkansas in July.

The second cohort of 61 scholars was selected during a rigorous process that began with more than 600 applications. Scholars were selected based on their leadership growth potential and the strength of their personal leadership projects aimed at improving the civic or social good by addressing a problem or need in a community, profession, or organization.

The second cohort joins the alumni network of the first cohort of 60 scholars in the program. They include individuals from diverse backgrounds and geographies, coming from a variety of sectors, including private, public, non-profit, military, and academia.

Peaceful Rest Baptist Church (PRBC) and Southern University at Shreveport (SUSLA), Community and Workforce Development (CWD) have joined forces in offering services for individuals interested in enhancing their quality of life through educational, professional, cultural and other enrichment opportunities through a program entitled "Pathway to Success." This initiative is a comprehensive education and training program designed to assist individuals in obtaining their high school equivalency diploma, securing and retaining employment, and to aid in their overall professional growth.

To earn their equivalency diploma, students have to take the new HiSET (High School Equivalency Test) exam, formally known as GED. The exam can be taken in multiple formats and multiple languages, and it provides a number of accommodations for test takers with disabilities and health-related needs. When a student earns a passing score, they will be awarded a High School Equivalency Diploma.

To be admitted into the Adult Education Program, applicants must register at the Intake Department at the SUSLA Metro Campus or at PRBC, 8200 St. Vincent Avenue. Applicants will be tested and must score at the sixth grade level or above to be enrolled into the program. Those who score below sixth grade level will be referred to other sources designed to help increase their grade level.

Aside from providing basic skills instruction, the Adult Education Program, in conjunction with the Department of Intake and Supportive Services, assists students in acquiring meaningful career pathways after graduation. As students are preparing to take the HiSET, they also attend life skills training daily. The purpose of life skills is to help students learn to cope in everyday society and to overcome barriers to their success such as transportation to class, domestic violence, family dysfunction, employment, housing, childcare, etc.

"We are excited to not only partner with Peaceful Rest, but to continue towards our goal of extending our educational opportunities into the community," noted Janice Sneed, Vice Chancellor of Community and Workforce Development. "The Pathways program allows us to reach out to the non-traditional student and provide a means to attain an educational goal."
